2) Events of the Week

Quite a week with my mother still being detained in hospital with mild pneumonia and being treated for issues surrounding dementia. Be good to have her back home later this month, being a bit of a torrid time for her and the family.

Also, Preparations are in hand for my trip to the United States of America to attend a Digital Experts Academy Incubator Branding Workshop. This is to be held in New Jersey, close to New York which is a destination that I have on my bucket list. I look forward to getting myself there, all made possible by a membership of the Six Figure Mentors and Digital Experts Academy.

And something from previous weeks.... worth repeating...

When you are in a job, working for a boss, you have to manage time but often the time is managed for you. When you are an independent business owner you have to learn many skills and one of them is time management. If you fancy a bit of a laugh on how we procrastinate and waste the day rather than being productive click the video link below and check out my time management video.

After all the 'work', if that is what it is because when you work from home it doesn't feel like work, you just enjoy what you do, I turned my attention back to Mum. We all have our challenges but for me it is just one hell of a benefit to be free to choose when to work and when not and to be available for the family. Mum has been kept in hospital all of this week and is unlikely to be out of hospital until next week.

Therefore, the week also had a lot of trips back and forward to the hospital to find out that the ward she was on was shut due to a virus. Now that created a lot more stresses but having attended a Landmark professional development and character building course last year I was able to remain calm and relaxed and just deal with the situation. Look up the Landmark forum on the internet and if you get the chance go on it and clear the mind and be better at dealing with stresses and what life throws at you. It's good!

Turns out, that having worked with the Social Services, she will be discharged next week and into respite care whilst I am in New Jersey with family checking in on her too. I can't wait to have her back home. Not long now.

2A) News of the Week.. New Jersey Here I Come!

I have been selected by the digital marketing company I am an affiliate for to go on what is called a brand incubator program where they are to help me with the further branding of my Company and home businesses. Can't wait. Why?.. because it is out in New Jersey in the United States and I flew out on Monday the 9th March 2015 for the week to stay at the Molly Pitcher Inn.

It should be fun doing the training, seeing the sights, New York and the various restaurants and trips out that are lined up for us. I'll let you know how it goes in next weeks newsletter.

New Jersey Viewed From Battery Park, New York

It is quite a tick in the box for me because for a very long time I have wanted to visit that part of the world and if I had not taken the decision back in 2011 to join the Six Figure Mentors this would not have happened. You never quite know where your journey will take you when you take on something new. You see, anything is possible. You just have to take action and make it happen to change your life for the better.

It all started when I checked out the product below.

4) Weekly News From The SFM

The Six Figure Mentors digital business system and online marketing training has come along way since my first involvement with it back in May 2011. It is greatly enhanced and it now has available many internet marketing tools that have improved the experience for it's members. Graphix Creator, Simple Lead Capture, Simple Trax, Digital Business Lounge to name but a few.

This week Stuart Ross and Jay Kubassek ran various webinars. In summary we can look forward to Momentum days in Australia, the States and the UK along with various marketing and online business workshops through the year.

Work continues on improving even further the internet marketing tools available and the SFM Back office has undergone a winter clean and update!

The membership continues to expand worldwide and the Community grows stronger with the Company itself increasing the staff levels to accommodate the growth. The signs are strong for a good year with the Six Figure Mentors and if you would like to get started application packs are available at this link.

5) What is in it for you?

I don't know why you have opted in for information about the Six Figure Mentors but clearly you have a reason for being here. These reasons, your 'why', could be many things.

- More time with the family
- More holidays
- Laptop lifestyle
- Start an online business
- Internet marketing training
- Escape the corporate rat race
- Sack the boss and have a business of your own
- You want to be a work at home mum or dad
- Pay off debt
- Be at home to look after a family member - one of mine!
- Start a home business or other business
- Increase your marketing knowledge and lead flow for your existing business

- Learn about entrepreneurship, online marketing, helping local businesses, branding and creating your own products
- Build multiple income streams on a part or full time basis
- Extra income
- Increase your pension pot
- And many more...

All these and more could be your reasons why you are looking to the Six Figure Mentors to be a solution to your "Why". For me it was to replace my former full time income as a lawyer, be charitable, help others succeed online from home or from anywhere in the world where there is an internet connection and pay off debt. For you, well only you will know that until we partner up as Six Figure Mentors members when we will get to know each other as team members.

Whatever your reasons by going through the getting started steps and digital lifestyle blueprint that the Six Figure Mentors provide you with when you join you will be well on your way to achieving your goals and helping others as you do so.

With my experience of the system, and as a pro-active member of the Community, I can tell you that this is a very enjoyable and viable solution to what you are looking to achieve. Sure, you will need to roll up your sleeves, get stuck into the learning curve but on this journey you will be transformed into a new being, a new lifestyle, and one that will give you what you want for you and your family if you work the system and don't quit.

If you don't have any experience of online marketing, you are new to the industry, and you don't have any of your own products to develop and promote then you can start as an affiliate marketer. This means that you sell other people's products using your marketing training and earn while you learn receiving commissions on your sales. With the Six Figure Mentors product line commissions can be earned that run into the thousands as you take action on the training provided to you.

You can also use the Six Figure Mentors products and services to learn...

- how to change your lifestyle and create a digital life
- learn how to live a laptop lifestyle making money online from your laptop anywhere in the world where there is an internet connection
- how you can become a professional digital marketer
- how you can help local businesses market their products online
- learn about branding
- have the opportunity to partner up with Stuart Ross and Jay Kubassek and promote your own products
- and more...

The Company are not really looking for opportunity seekers but are looking for entrepreneurs who want to build businesses for the long term and be an active and supportive member of the Community. Therefore, they have an application process in place where applicants are vetted prior to full membership.

Guest Article 1 - How the words on your website affect Search Engine Optimization performance -

The Words On Your Website

Matt Press – Splash Copywriters

It never fails to amaze me how much attention is given to the design of a website in comparison to the scrutiny apportioned to the words on it. Words will play a decisive role in the user experience of your website, but if you're not convinced, know that words influence search engine optimization (SEO).

Why is SEO important?

Well, what's the point in creating an amazing website if no one's going to find it?

Getting to the top of search engine results has always been important, but in 2015 it's crucial. The overwhelming majority of internet experiences start with a search engine. And because of human nature, the search results on page one are getting all of the action.

That's why it's important to do as much SEO work on your website as you can.

How can words make a difference to the rank of your website? Here are three areas.

1. Metadata

To give your website the best chance of reaching page one, you have to create metadata for your content in a CMS.

Metadata serves two purposes.

Firstly, while it doesn't affect your ranking as such, it nevertheless acts like a signpost and makes it easier for Google to find your content in the first place. If you've not got metadata, you're just stacking barriers in the way of success. Speaking metaphorically, creating metadata is like making sure that your car is full of petrol before you drive to work.

Secondly, the copy in the meta titles and meta descriptions will be what's visible when someone is looking at a set of search results. It's important then – it's this copy that will persuade people to click on your website or not.

The words have to be succinct and effective. You've worked hard getting to page one, so don't waste the opportunity with sloppy copy.

2. Keywords

With SEO in years gone by, it always used to be the case that the more keywords you had in your copy and in your metadata, the higher you'd rank in search results. But as Google has refined its technology, that's no longer the case.

In fact, the opposite is now true – the more keywords you try and cram into your web pages, the more likely it is that Google will interpret your content as being spammy and will penalise you.

A lot has been written about how many keywords you're now 'allowed' to have in your copy, but the truth is, no one knows except the techies who actually work at Google. The best plan is to write for humans, not search engines. That will automatically see you put in a natural amount of keywords that will please Google and make for better reading.

3. Regular, quality content

Google hates static websites and tends to ignore them. As it's clearly not practical to update all your web pages every week, you'll need to have a blog or news section where you can upload new content that's naturally filled with keywords (see above), plus that's relevant and useful to people in your industry.

Every new piece of content means a fresh index from Google's clever software. If you get in the habit of posting up copy, videos, images or infographics on a regular basis, Google will know to come looking for you. And the more popular that content is, the better your chances are of reaching page one.

Guest Article 2 - Search Engine Optimization (SEO) Isn't dead. It's just thinking. - Matt Press - Splash Copywriters

Search Engine Optimization Isn't Dead!

With the increasing importance of content and inbound marketing, lots of people are starting to talk about the death of SEO. But I find these sorts of definitive comments are just made to garner cheap views – they're actually often misleading, unhelpful and, sometimes, just plain wrong.

For starters, SEO isn't going anywhere just yet. And for clarity, they shouldn't be seen as mutually exclusive strategies. I see SEO and content as two sides of the same coin – they're both about driving traffic to your business.

While writing an obituary for SEO is premature, content is certainly more important nowadays - the best way to achieve search engine superiority is to create quality content that is liked and shared.

In other words, when it comes to content on your website, focus on humans, not search engines and you'll get the best of both worlds.

So we're talking ebooks, blogs, that sort of thing. Blogging in particular is a fantastic tool, because it has so many benefits. Apart from anything else, it allows you to talk about your business in a different voice. Blog posts can also build your reputation, as you can comment on news and opinions in your industry.

Blogs obviously drive traffic to your website, but if they're popular, they can give your website a huge SEO boost (hence my earlier point about these strategies working together nicely).

We're all after business success and having a consistent, interesting blog should be a key part of your marketing strategy. We live in a business world where we're constantly analysing metrics, hunting leads and conversions like scavengers.

I'd never advise ignoring any aspect of SEO. It would be like throwing away some of your tools and then trying to tackle a big DIY job. Until we know otherwise, why make life harder for your business?

However, you could say content is the new SEO. And blogging is one of the most powerful tools we have at our disposal.

Working on your content is a strategy that's simple, free and right under our noses.
